"This fellow is quite right in asserting that one hever knows what one can do nutil he tries," langhed the manager. "One woman who applied for membership in the school was quite size that she knew what she could do. She was a stout, gray haired party of shout do, who was sewitched on the surject of cheef Minister She came from a little hamlet in New England. She said that all of her children were grown up and married. She taid me their name, and how many children that each had. She said that she had always wanted to go on the stage, and that now there was nothing to prevent her carrying out her wisdes. I asked her what style of character she thought she could hest personne and she has each that for that character, atthough the had tacter been made of a theater or even seen a play. I had great difficulty in discussing her from the rush undertaking."

GIRLS WHO WOULD ACT. CALIFORNIA TOUNG WOMEN THE

BEST RAW MATERIAL. New Yorkers Are Self-conscious, but Have Style, and New Englanders Are Prim-Southern Girls Make Good Actresses, "California is the great place now for young women who want to go on the stage," said the manager of a well-known New York dramatic school. "There is a broadth, an originality, about the pupil from the Pacific slope suscentible of the highest cultivation and most adaptable to the requirements of the stage. "The California girl is crude," he went on. "It takes about a month to civilize her, or, rather, conventionalize her; she chews gum swaggers around with her hair down her back,

She is thoughtful, emo tional, possesses unusual fluency of expression and, last but not least, has not a particle of selfconsciousness. Indeed, it would seem that some of the measureless breadth and height and nobility of her plains and mountains had entered into her being.

GOV. ISAAC PUSEY GRAY. HIS SUCCESSFUL CAREER IN IN-

Studied Law While on His Father's Farm, Fought in the Civil War, and Became Governor of His State How He Showed the Mexicons What a Fourth of July Is. The recent death of Isaac Puscy Gray has removed one of the most picture-sque figures in DIANA POLITICS.

ISAAC PUSEY GRAY and spent most of his early years on his father's farm in Ohio. He had been a clerk in a country first. He was a shrewd, keen man, quick to make friends, and able to hold them, though an uncompromising enemy. As a stump speaker his reputation was made in 1800, when, as andidate for Congress at the age of 33, he stumped the "old burnt district" of Indiana against the Hon. George W. Julian, and in the election that followed reduced an overwhelming majority to one of 300. Two years later, when he took his sent in the State Senate, he went to the front immediately, and during his four years' service there was the leader of his party. As early as 1806 he began to waver in his allegiance to the Republican party, but it was not until 1876 that he became a candidate of the Democratic party, although twice before the Democrats had offered him nominations, once for Congressman at large and once as Attorney-General. When in 1876 his name was put up as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor the nomination was carried by acclamation. He then became the Democratic leader in Indiana. and after an exciting convass was elected Governor in 1884. Previous to the Democratic Convention of 1802 he was a conspicuous candidate for the Presidential nomination. He had the solid Indiana delegation and was the strongest man in his State, on which it was thought the election might swing. Just before the Convention, he withdrew his name, with the understanding, his friends say, that he would be nominated for Vice-President. He lost, however, and immediately there was a hue and cry that he would work against the ticket. But Mr. Gray's lovality was not affected by his defeat, and he worked hard for Cleveland's election. When the time came for the distribu-tion of diplomatic prizes it was thought that he would get one of the best European missions. store and had finally become the proprietor.

single chair. In the chair was a Mexican, one-half of whose face was shaved and the other covered with a mixture of lather and whiskers. As Mr. Gray turned to leave, the barber, who had been informed that he was the new American Minister, hurried his customer out of the chair. Mr. Gray profested against such partiality, and insisted on waiting until his tura came. This incident was commented upon by the Mexican papers.

chair. Mr. Gray profested against such partality, and insisted on waiting until his turn came. This incident was commented upon by the Mexican papers.

The first Fourth of July he spent in the city of Mexicowasa memorable one. In the mast the American Ministers had never done more than to hoist the flag over the legation. Mr. Gray decided that the day should not pass without letting the Mexicans know that it had some meaning, so he decorated his house with flags and streamers from top to bottom and hid in a great store of fireworks. All day long the cannon crackers were kept a-booming, to the great astonishment of his neighbors, and at night he set off Roman candles and rockets.

Many stories are told of the manner in which he endeared himself to our southern neighbors. He was an ardent admirer of Mexico and wrote several articles on the traditions of the land. To travelling Americans he was always courteons, and would give them sound advice how hest they could enjoy their visit to the country. He was the means of rutting on a sound financial basis the American hospital, which was in a bad condition when he went to the country.

MISS TITUS LECTURES ON WILLS, She Is the Only Woman Who Has Been

Admitted to the Bar of This City. Miss Melle Stanleyetta Titus, L.L. H., attorney and counsellor at law, the first woman to win a prize in a regular law school, and the first and only woman admitted to the bar of the city of New York, delivered the first of a course of lectures on technical subjects yesterday afternoon in the hall of the Friends' Seminary in East

Sixteenth street. Miss Titus, who is an intellectual looking young woman with gray-blue eyes, a broad, low forehead and a pleasing smile, talked fluently forehead and a pleasing sinite, taiked fluently for three-quarters of an hour on the subject of "Wills," Her voice is clear and well modulated, and in spite of the dryness of the subject also succeeded in interesting the audence, in order to make her beture more easily understood she had charts hung on the wall behind her, on which were set forth the subdivisions of her subject and a model of a well-drawn will. Hefore telling about restamentary documents Miss Titus said:
